HOW REMOTE THAT ONE POINT WITHOUT MOVEMENT?

IF WE look around us at life and the universe a cardinal observation is that everything moves. Movement is the inherent property of all things, be they manifest in form and matter or belonging to the unseen realms of ever higher energies. Panta rhei, said Greek philosopher Heraclitus 2,500 years ago, all is a-flowing, and squeezed that very same observation into the shortest formula. All is in a state of flux - all, that is The All together with Every-Thing contained therein. Wherever we look there is no stop, no containment, no stillness, no end to the impetus once given, an impetus taking effect till - well, till when? Incalculable for us...

The great first word in St John: let there be light, could perhaps have been rendered: let there be movement! Indeed, Goethe's Faust tried it this way - let there be a deed, let there be action! Racking his brains as he did, Faust yet appears to have been unable to dig any deeper than scratching the surface. Truly the play of words where one term seems to be as relative as the other! Yet if we reduce them, by silently watching their inner meaning, we may well applaud Heraclitus in his findings. For whether we say Light, or Deed, or Sound, or Word, or Action, or Force, or Spirit, or whatever else it may be - they all are just unthinkable without an inner element of Movement. As a matter of fact, without movement there cannot be light. Without movement there would not be space, neither form nor distance, neither change nor duration.

We ourselves are a grandiose composition of movements. From atom to molecule, from here to the cell, from cell to organ, from organ to limb, from here to body, to the fleeting emotions, the flights of fancy, the excursions of mind - flux and movement wherever we look! The whole of us is in a state of permanent change, the body, the character, the mind and the soul. We are no longer today what we have been yesterday. We shall not be in ten years' time what we are now. The movements to which we are subject carry us onward, forever on. The movements of which we ourselves are composed do their work under immutable laws.

Do you feel now how very remote, how unspeakably deep deep within your innermost recesses, there must reside that very something of Yourself which does NOT change, in terms of time?

The most awkward situation an editor can find himself in is to just have to write on a subject which itself is still in the balance. The outcome may be like an explosion right, left, in front of his nose or close to his p-, sorry backside - all equally delicate spots in which no one would prefer to get hurt.

Yes, there must be going on some terrible itching in many an editor's chair as the world awaits the Russian moon snaps! The secret, or the disappointment, may be out any day from now while we write - also with an itch, of course.

But especially in our UFOlogy quarters the tension must be running pretty high! We are coming ever closer to the point where somebody will have to eat his words! This is either astronomy, maintaining there is no life on the moon, or dear G.A., who has described scenes of beauty and life on the satellite when passing behind it. I don't think these first pictures will already decide the issue but the next lot may!

Anyway, it doesn't seem to be all moonshine that awaits us from up there, for as good ols Proclus (410 - 485) has told us quoting Orphic traditions: "On Selene (Moon to the Greek, if you please) there are rivers, forests, towns and snow!"

Wonder how they knew? Photos?

IN THE Gorman "UFO-Nachrichten" for September, editor Karl L. Veit recalls happy memories of his meeting with George Adamski in Basle and gathers some of GA's casual hints & remarks which we feel should not be withheld from our readers & which invite some comment. Karl Veit writes:

"In his private discussions in Zürich, Basle & Locarno, GA mentioned quite a few points which are no secrets. Inter alia he said:

The events of catastrophic as well as cosmic import in the near future are bound to happen. They will come about under the close observation of our space friends who possess a rich experience in these things which we, however, lack. When necessary, all those people ready to let themselves be rescued, will be invited to enter (the ships.)

Untold numbers of space people are stationed on earth, constantly watching. In Europe, for example, ten men & two women are dispersed over an area reaching from Basle via Locarno & Milan to Rome in the south & covering the width of Switzerland, observing & reporting everything. They have good knowledge of every UFO group and their members. It is more or less the same in all countries on earth.

While in Locarno GA was resting one day on a bench near the lake when a stranger, an elegantly dressed gentleman, sat down next to him & started a conversation. Suddenly he asked in English: "How are you, Mr. Adamski?" This was followed by shaking of hands & the exchange of a sign known only to the initiated. The space man then had a long discussion with him. Amongst other things he explained why scout ships had distinctly been seen moving southwards over Locarno on Monday, 8th June, 1959, at 10 a.m. & again at 6.40 p.m. the same day. Countless people on the station square had been witnessing this, not without due exclamation so that GA's attention had been drawn to the commotion while sitting on the terrace of his hotel. On June 10, at 10.30 p.m., a slender, cigar-like mothership had been observed, circled by three scout ships.

The space man also said that sooner or later the patient and diligent members of groups would get their reward by coming into contact with space people - or being taken along for a short ride. Interplanetary ships are said to have a parking station high up in a valley of the Alps far removed from human habitation."

Approach - October, 1959

Taken at face value the above report seems to have all the mystic ingredients of a recent psychic UFO thriller or a top class message story as are doing the rounds in New Age & like kinds of groups. Yet, it is not all as easy as that, nor as difficult as it looks.

(1) We are convinced that all around earth many true, shorter as well as prolonged encounters have taken place between earth & space men, or at least their ships. Amongst those claims, however, which pertain to genuinely objective AND communicative contacts, we still have faith only in GA's and Allingham's, with the Reinhold Schmidt and a couple of other cases as undecided ones. We leave out of consideration here, for a certain reason, the fact that the Masters of the Far East have not only always known the true situation but have been in contact with men from other planets all the time while the rest of the world has not - all this as also instanced lately by what Dr. Rampa has told us.

So whenever there arises about a certain point a question of authoritativeness, we are not ready to accept psychic groups & mystic busy-bodies as authoritative because they happen to put forth the same information as does GA, or vice versa. Knowledge gathered psychically or subjectively is, while it may not be devoid of objectively correct facts, highly unreliable in every respect. The reasons for this have often enough been discussed in our pages so that we only have to repeat, in a nutshell: these channels & sources are master neither of themselves nor of the processes involved! To have to rely on authority at all is, for man, bad enough as it is. But to go by the experiences of psychics and sensitives is like placing yourself, blind as you are, in the hands of the blind.

We must live out of & with our own experiences after they have been made or, where they comprise abstract knowledge, after we have incorporated, digested and assimilated them by the correct way of thinking and reasoning. All past experience and knowledge is stored in the higher layers of our consciousness. Although not everybody has an equally easy access to them, they constantly try to assert themselves in our lives - whenever we are in need to draw on them. They knock at the inner door as Conscience whenever we undertake steps of ethical or moral nature, but as Intuition where we are about to embark on any more worldly thoughts or actions. Both are one and the same thing, though. It is man in the ignorance of his true constitution who invents two terms - & these even mostly only vaguely understood - where one and the same thing is involved.

In any case, there is a reason for our inability in this life to easily draw on intuition when confronted with all this "new" knowledge about cosmic things: interplanetary ships & men from other stars! Most probably it is that we were extensively ignorant of these facts already in our previous lifespans. We may have lived in nations & under circumstances where no tradition of the cosmic contact had survived or where it, as such, had only been remembered in the form of fables or myths, themselves remote from any near reality. Now, today, we have to exercise so much patience in our development & growth into a bare understanding of these new cosmic facts. We have to go and to grow far back within ourselves, in order to reach the very old, stored-away knowledge. When we are making contact with this knowledge again then we have reached, according to Dr. Jung's school, the stage in our time where we take part in the "visual rumour" about 'flying saucers' & all that they may mean - a stage against which he feels he must lift a warning finger! More plainly, however, it is the stage where we keep reiterating when discussing interplanetary space craft and fellow-men from other worlds: Well, I just know it is so, I know it is true! Such exclamation, as we know only too well, is of little value to any other individual who has less sympathy or understanding for this subject. It is OUR knowledge not HIS, and before it can be of practical value in the further forming of his life & character he must have regained it for himself.

And yet, as with conscience & intuition generally, not even we are so unequivocally "sure" at times. Many times we go against our conscience, the sum total of our previous experiences. Many a time we do not listen to the voice of intuition which advises us on a certain path to take on the basis of the innumerable hit-and-miss experiences we have made in previous lives. And so those too, who have not had any direct UFO experience, not even a sighting, yet are staunch followers of this only sensible and comprehensive theory, now & again feel some doubt. And no wonder. We all are far from being masters yet of our higher functions & faculties.

That process of growing back to the old stored knowledge is difficult and takes time. How much so is illustrated by the fact that despite our technically educated mind of today which recognised those flying objects as space craft, and which is bent on exploring space in craft of its own design, and despite the other fact that people came forward to report their meetings with beings from space, the idea that human beings from other stars are HERE is still largely unacceptable to present-day homo sapiens.

Most of us though, who have accepted these facts yet hold no immediate prospect of making a personal contact with space people and of personally verifying again the inner knowledge, would welcome any new confirmation by some other fellow, luckier than we are and actually gaining a fresh experience in a meeting. Yet we are ready to listen rather to what GA has to say than what comes out of psychic & like circles and this especially where points tally in both instances. GA has given ample proof of the objective reality of his experiences, while the others have proved nothing and, unbeknownst to themselves, cannot even prove a thing. There is no question then of ever classing GA & his message with the psychics and their messages, even in cases where his information coincides with a "message" from their quarters.

(2) There is another point of which we must not lose sight & this is the less difficult aspect of the matter.

Thoughts are modulated fields of energy of a hypermetrical level, i.e. our age has no instruments with which to measure or register them (although our space friends have). They are beyond the reach of any of our mechanical contraptions but not beyond the reach of a mind appropriately adepted. The brain-mind, at this stage in our evolution, is the organic apparatus without which there would be neither the creating of conscious thought fields nor the receiving of other, also consciously created, thought fields. There are many levels of modulated energy fields of Thinking all around us at all times and we often speak of inventions, break-throughs, ideas & fads being "in the air". Many can "sense" and "feel" such already modulated fields but "do not always have the words" to express them. Comparatively few can reach up into ever purer spheres of thought and bring into expression their contents unadulterated.

Just as, for instance now, a handful of people around earth, all trying to develop a particular kind of steel, may be tuning in to each other's thoughts without necessarily knowing it, so psychics and sensitives can also tune in to thought fields of researchers & thinkers on the UFO subject & "pick their minds". On the same basis we all, however, are reaching up into the higher layers which are replete with the thought fields of our space friends. The more our brain cells regroup themselves so as to become able to handle the appropriate modulations, the more we are apt to "feel our way" through those higher reasonings and to "see some light" here - the same as he who from morn till night has nothing else to think of in his head than cricket, car racing or pin-ups, will have a better grip on these subjects than others can have who are not taking part in his hobbies.

The first time you ever hear of space people having their representatives amongst us, the thought may appall you. However, the more knowledge you acquire on the subject - foremost around the fact that Man of the Universe is Man wherever you go - the more logical & reasonable will this thought become to you (as it actually and truly is). We on our planet follow the same course with each other every day. Nations, organisations, institutions deny each other open access to many of their activities. The logical way out is to pose as a member of the respective group & so to gain all the information wanted by living right amongst them. The same with the people from space. We have rejected them so often in the course of our history that they have no other choice than to insist living amongst us as one of us. The big difference, of course, is that they are our elders & superiors in moral & many another advancement so that their intentions are of high order while terrestrial espionage is by preference the tool of power politics.

The first time you hear that cosmic catastrophe may overtake this planet - as happens to all others as well in appropriate cycles - and that multitudes of men stand to be drowned, burnt, crushed, blown to pieces or to die of indescribable diseases, you will turn away in disgust and disbelief, just as Esdras & other Biblical personages did. But once you start thinking, acquiring further knowledge, growing & understanding, you will find that you can reach some logical, no, some evident conclusions which would have been very strange to your thinking only a while before.

There is many a space ship that by mere coincidence must have been hovering near the location of a sudden accident. Have we ever heard of a ship coming down to lend assistance? No! Why. Because for the time being a higher consideration still prevents them from taking open action of suchlike nature. Sooner or later, to be sure, such assistance would be looked upon as an uninvited imposition of themselves upon us. As the situation stands today they are not yet welcome by all the men on earth - be it even in their rôle of rescuers or ambulance men. The time, and that is of course the understanding in our time, just is not yet! On the other hand, there is no doubt that in a less open way beings on this planet have received help from fellow-beings of space to a measure which will never be assessable in terms of words or figures.

Once, however, the scale of accident enlarges to catastrophic dimension, involving by shift of poles, of axis, of magnetic or other fields the whole of the planet & thus all humanity without discrimination - and as it has happened quite a few times before - then the exigencies of policy and the demands of the hour are also changed. We will be given ample warnings in time - in innumerable subtle ways but maybe also in many an open way! It is not impossible that even 5 minutes to 12 the space people will offer us the very escape operation they employ at home - loading all the people into immense ships. The likelihood, however, of man on this planet to accept such offers is remote. Because by then his inner principles will have fallen still further apart than is the case today where reasoning, motivation, activity, moral acuteness and ethical responsibility are tearing man apart like bedevilled steeds galloping off in so many directions. By then he will not be able to bring himself to accepting the Good, the Generous, the Beneficial & Salutary, the Wholesome, the Grace any longer! It is more likely than not that by then man here will generally have fallen back to the level of the animal, nay, still further down where a good deed may evoke but the action of a Cain in return. It is just as unlikely that our brothers from space will do their utmost to herd such hordes into their ships just in order to snatch them away from impending planetary disaster. It is more logical that they will do what they can, though leaving the decision and the results entirely to ourselves & the functioning of our own free will. They will land all right, o yes! But it stands to reason that only those of us who are not afraid & bewildered, who have in the first place done their utmost to come through the times healthily and unaffected by the general trend of degradation all around; that those of us to whom the people from space are a welcome, cherished & intimate fact and have been so all along, that those only will then still have the courage to run forward and accept in humility their relief measures. And thus will come about the situation of GA's sentence in the beginning: "When necessary, all those people ready to let themselves be rescued will be invited to enter".

Once these points are seen in this context they are logical & sensible enough. And whether we are satisfied to discuss them in this sober & unassuming language, whether in any other, or whether even in the language & terms & pictures of the Bible, according to which the Saviour will appear in the clouds of the air where we shall meet Him - it is all the same as long as we go on striving, growing, opening our minds & enlarging our understanding, untainted by the thoughts of the day, of the masses, of the Governments and the secret powers, so much ham-stringing our personal lot, and thereagainst letting ourselves be supported by our own thinking, our own convictions & the promptings of our inner, and better, man!

BRISBANE "SUNDAY MAIL" SPLASHES PAPUA UFO ENCOUNTER STORY

You will recall the sensational 8-page report on UFO sightings over New Guinea sent by university-trained Father W. B. Gill of the Boianai Anglican Mission, Papua, to Brisbane in Australia some months ago. We mentioned it in Vol. 2, No. 5. Now liaison friends Roy & Pearl Russell, of Queensland, acting for Sonya Lyubicin who has gone to Palomar Terraces for a lengthy period, have enclosed in their No. 5 News Letter a cutting of the Brisbane "Sunday Mail" which spread Father Gill's story over the whole width of the front page!

Quoting from his report it says there i.a.: "A group of 12 people, including myself, saw a large flying object & 2 smaller ones just after sunset." (This happened on June 27, between 6 & 6.30 p.m.) "Four figures appeared on top of the large object which seemed to be a mothership. The figures looked as though they were doing something on the top deck." (Father Gill had made a diagram which was reproduced in the newspaper.) "One figure seemed to be standing, looking down at us. I stretched my hand above my head and waved. To our surprise the figure did the same. Another... person & myself waved both hands over our heads, & all four figures seemed to do the same. All the mission boys made audible gasps." Father Gill said - the newspaper report continues - that later a torch was flashed at the object as dark descended & the object apparently acknowledged by making several wavering motions back and forth. He said that the large object appeared to be the same as one sighted the previous night by 38 witnesses when it was clearly visible & mostly stationary for 25 minutes. Assuming that the men were earth size, the diameter of the bottom deck would have been roughly 35 feet & the top deck 20 ft... A shaft of blue light came from the top of the object, & the "men" were illuminated from the waist up.-

Thank you, Roy and Pearl!
